The Democratic County Central Committee of San Mateo County is sponsoring a victory dinner to be held at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, San Mateo, tomorrow at 7 p. m., in celebration of the sweeping Democratic victories of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Congressman John J. McGrath.

Chairman Thomas J. Broderick has announced that a telegram has been sent to United State Senators W. G. McAdoo and Hiram W. Johnson, inviting them to the affair. Congressmen Richard J. Welch, Franck R. Havenner of San Francisco and other Democratic leaders of the state, including Charles A. Cavalli of Half Moon Bay, are invited.

A capacity attendance is expected. The committee advises that those desiring to be in attendance secure their reservation early from members of the San Mateo committee. Miss Elinor Louise Falvey, County Court House, Redwood City, is secretary.

S. F. Man Killed In County Line Mishap

After being run down by an automobile on Bayshore highway in Visitacion Valley, Perry G. King, 40, former San Mateo real estate man and San Francisco resident, died in Alemany Hospital, Sunday night of this week.

According to the San Francisco coroner's office, King was riding down the pininsula with Mrs. Emma Croop, 808 Edgehill drive, Burlingame. Near the San Francisco street car terminal north of the San Mateo County line he left Mrs. Croop's car to talk to Louis Wilson, a motorman.

Returning across the highway he was struck by a car driven by James K. Weisel, 535 Silver avenue, San Bruno, the coroner's office said. King was removed to the hospital, where he died at 11:20 p. m.

AFTER MONTH'S FREEDOM "BAD BOY" IS NABBED

Inspectors Trap Felon In S. F. Apartment—Carried Gun But Did Not Offer Resistance

Following a series of "hot" tips, Inspectors Mike Desmond and Bart Kelleher nabbed Ray Lagomarsino, Colma "Bad Boy," as he entered his Bush street apartment in San Francisco, Saturday night of last.

The felon carried a gun. However, he did not resist the officers when they took him into custody.

Lagomarsino took "French leave" from the county jail at Redwood City, nearly a month ago, where he was being held on burglarly charges. Although he is again in custody, there is little chance that the ex-convict will be returned to this county. San Francisco police have a gun possession charge against him and announced, early this week, they will prosecute the case.

There is a possibility that Lagomarsino will be returned to Alcatraz.

COUNTY CITIES ARE TO OBTAIN HETCHY WATER

Large County District Not Advisable, But Individual Cities Move Favorably

In order to gain a low rate tentatively offered by San Francisco for its water supply, officials and interested citizens of peninsula communities moved favorably, Friday evening of last week, to obtain Hetch Hetchy service.

After a two hour meeting of county leaders at San Mateo it was concluded that a county wide water district was inadvisable. However, it was disclosed that low water rates might be obtained by carrying out a three-point plan:

1—In order to provide the peninsula's $64,000 share of the $184,000 loss in revenue to San Francisco should a 10 cent per 100 cubic feet wholesale rate be put into effect, cities like Redwood, Burlingame and Palo Alto, which already have municipally owned water companies, should increase their consumption of Hetch Hetchy water.

2—The city of San Mateo should proceed to acquire a municipally owned system through which Hetch Hetchy water could be secured. At present the California Water Service Company serves San Mateo.

3—Menlo Park and similar centers should form districts through which mountain water might be purchased.

A typhoon lashed the southern part of Luzon Island, of the Phillipine group, last week, leaving nine dead, 32 believed lost, among them 20 miners entombed at Papaya. Millions of dollars of property damage was estimated.

FOUNDATION EXCAVATIONS ARE 90 PER CENT COMPLETE FOR NEW JEFFERSON HIGH GYMNASIUM

Concrete Pouring To Start Today, And Superstructure To Proceed In Sequence

Dreams do come true, provided enough concentrated effort is expended on their realization. A long hoped for improvement and plan on which local citizens have spent many years of preparatory work is now taking an objective form of concrete and steel at Jefferson Union High School.

Foundation excavations for the new gymnasium and swimming pool are 90 per cent complete, The Record was informed in an interview this week. Average sub grade for the pool has been established at approximately 20 feet below the normal contour. The gym sub grade falls from two to three feet below normal.

POURING STARTS

Concrete pouring for the foundation footings was started today. Work of seventeen sub contractors will follow in natural sequence as the new structure is rushed to completion.

Form lumber, steel, pipe and other materials are already on the site for immediate use.

Frank J. Reilly Company of San Francisco is general contractor on the job. Allen E. Plummer and Joe Mellett Jr. are, respectively, the federal resident engineer inspector and engineer inspector representing the school board.

D. C. TO HAVE XMAS LIGHTING ON MISSION ST.

Contributions Make Program Possible—"Lighting Up" Ceremony Is Planned

Another project of the Daly City Merchants Association moved toward completion early this week.

A committee, headed by Tony Milo, which was appointed at the last merchants meeting announces that sufficient funds have been obtained from local business houses and private citizens to install Christmas lights on both sides of Mission from Flournoy street to Hillside boulevard.

Twenty-four festoons of colored lights are to be hung across Mission. A "lighting up" ceremony is planned for Saturday night of next week, when, for the first time, the switch will be thrown to spread Yuletide spirit over the local business area.

Each evening for two weeks the lights will be turned on from 5 to 10 o'clock.

XMAS WREATHS

The $325 merchants decorating plan calls for individual wreaths for each member of the association in addition to street lighting.

Contract for the work was let to a San Francisco company, yesterday. The project was financed by contributions from merchants and public spirited citizens.

CELERY STRIKE OVER

Peace came to the celery agricultural area of the San Joaquin delta, Monday of this week, and 500 workers returned to their jobs.

The walkout ended following a meeting of leaders of the Agricultural Workers Union.

PEOPLE SUPREME IN RACING AT ITS BEST

By J. W. MARCHBANK

I am in perfect accord with the sentiment expressed by William Woodward, owner of great race horses, the other day in New York. In fact, I have been saying the same thing for a long time in these columns, which is:

Racing is a sport, NOT a BUSINESS.

William Woodward is a highly successful business man, but he did not make his money in racing; he went into the sport for the recreation and fun there is in it. He made his address before a meeting of racing commissioners who had an idea a national association of track owners might be a good thing. When the chairman of The Jockey Club got through the assembled commissioners were not so sure their notion was a good one.

The Jockey Club has been in existence for 40 years, and in all that time has never tried to force its views on bodies governing racing in other states. Any association made up of track owners could only suggest, as Mr. Woodward pointed out; it would have no power, by the nature of things, to enforce its views, say here in California. I was apprised of the holding of the meeting, but took no part in it and intend to run my own track—Tanforan—my own way, as I have been running it in the past. Suggestions, yes, I'll listen to, but that's all.

Home rule must be maintained in order to keep racing in the category of sport. Some men in other states as well as in California have the wrong notion that racing is conducted for the purpose of enriching dividend mad promoters.

If you want to make money, go into trade, mining, industry or finance; don't go into racing; in many instances plenty of capital has been dropped on account of false ideas as to the nature of the sport.

Both Mr. Woodward and J. E. Widener were emphatic in stating the commission of each state is answerable to the people of that particular state for the racing within the borders of that commonwealth and no outside influence should be tolerated. What we should aim at is just this:

Let the people decide how the racing should be conducted, giving their commissions, from time to time, specific instructions about keeping it on a sportsmanlike plane. Above all, don't let any dividend mad promoters get the upper hand.

BOARD SMOOTHS OUT SNAGS AND PUSHES PROJECT

Details Of Plans For New City Hall And Library Are Under Consideration

Architectural plans for the proposed new city hall and library in Daly City are now in the hands of the councilmen. Minor details which stood in the way of progress were swept aside this week.

Reports indicate that within the next few days tentative approval will be given for the building plans, and an active drive will be launched by public spirited citizens to push the proposals to completion.

LARGER HALL

The proposed new city hall will be nearly twice the size of the present one. Plans call for a three floor reinforced structure in modernistic design.

In it will be located a fire proof jail, police and other city offices, a large auditorium, lobby and store rooms.

LIBRARY

City lots located east of the Catholic Church on Wellington avenue is the proposed site for the new library, a frame building with large reading rooms and sufficient space for book stacks, magazine racks, files and a librarian's office.

PARKS

Daly City's civic improvement program calls for new parks, playgrounds and an extension of the city fire alarm and water systems into the Colma area, annexed to Daly City in 1933.

NEW S. M. COUNTY MAP IS SOUGHT BY SUPERVISORS

Action Spurred By Errors Now Existing In City And Political Boundaries

To scrap the ten year old official map of San Mateo County and draft a new one was the proposal made by Supervisor Witt at the board meeting, Monday of this week.

Several serious current boundary errors in political and incorporated areas of the county prompted Witt's move. These discrepancies were revealed in a report presented by William McCarthy, county publicity director, who was assisted in a recent survey by O. J. Hobbson, record clerk in the office of the county engineer.

Upon the suggestion from Engineer Marshall that a new large scale county map is now being prepared by his office and that the old official

ORGANIZATION IN ANNUAL TB DRIVE

Preventorium Sets 1937 Goal At $12,000 To Help Prevent Tuberculosis Among San Mateo Children

The San Mateo Preventorium's drive for funds went into its third week today with civic leaders urging the general public who have not as yet contributed to the campaign to "dig down" and support the institution.

$12,000 GOAL

"Our goal—$12,000—is a mighty cheap price to ask for the saving of the lives of San Mateo County children," said Mrs. Harry S. Dana, president of the organization.

"It amounts to a thousand dollars a month for the support, medical care and prevention of tuberculosis for little children whose families are not financially able to aid them."

The Preventorium is not affiliating its drive this year with the sale of Christmas seals.

There is still time to mail in the subscription cards with a donation.

GREAT FIELD TO START IN WORLD FAIR HANDICAP

Some Of Best Runners Now In West Are Primed For Big Stake Saturday

With the arrival at Bay Meadows, today, of the stake horses Infantry and Giant Killer, the candidates of Anthony Pelleteri for the $10,000 World's Fair Handicap, 1 3/16 miles, this richest stake of the Bay Meadows season is certain to hold additional interest. It is set for decision tomorrow (Saturday). Infantry and Giant Killer, and also the gallant Tick On, the latter racing for Neil McCarthy, arrived from Santa Anita.

Infantry, formerly racing in the colors of Joseph E. Widener, is one of the outstanding three year olds of the year. He has withstood a hard campaign at various distances and has the ability to carry his extreme speed over a route. Infantry and Giant Killer will have capable riders for the fall classic, for Jockey Charlie Corbett will be on the former and Jockey Johnny Longdon on the latter. Owner Pelleteri will arrive in a few days.

The arrival of Infantry would seem to steal some of the attention in which Seabiscuit has been basking since his startling victory in the recent Bay Bridge Handicap wherein he ran the mile in 1:36, winning by five lengths. Seabiscuit, racing for Mrs. C. S. Howard, is an extremely popular horse for the big race and it seems assured that he will continue to share favoritism with the invading Infantry.

The World's Fair Handicap now bears every earmark of becoming the outstanding stake of the several meetings here. At this time it appears that the starters will be Accolade, Infantry, Tick On, Noble Count Seabiscuit, Giant Killer, Our Count, Coldwater, Wildland and Watersplash. There still remains a chance that Primulus may start.

CONTRIBUTIONS GIVE VETERANS CHEERFUL XMAS

More Than Half Of Budget Goal Has Been Reached To Spread Cheer

To the sick and disabled veterans at the United States Hospital at Livermore, a Merry Christmas.

This cheery greeting is being sent with dozens of checks mailed to the hospital's Christmas committee, whose members, for more than a decade, have assumed the responsibility of spreading cheer on Christmas Day among the men and women patients at the government hospital at Livermore.

More than one-half of the required budget goal of $2500 has been received, it was announced today by the treasurer. Before Christmas arrives, the committee feels certain, the entire fund needed will have been subscribed by civic, fraternal, patriotic and veteran organizations in California to whom the appeal for funds has been made.

Officers of the International Longshoremens Association took time off from their present problems to send a cheery word of greeting to the veterans and include their check for $50. This is just one of many generous contributions being received at the committee's headquarters at 121 East Eleventh street, Oakland.

A smart woman may be able to make a fool of any man, but the smarter she is the more often she doesn't do it.

PALS!

No other cue of genuine friendship carries quite the conviction that a warm puppy's nose conveys as it snuggles in a master's hand. Thus, dog and man become pals.

Such a relationship existed between Archie Banfield, the local pound man, and Sweet Pea, his year old female terrier.

The story goes that last winter Bandy found the pup on El Camino Real, frightened and apparently deserted. He took a fancy to the homeless little lady and christened her Sweet Pea. She took a fancy to Bandy. They grew to be pals.

Last week Sweet Pea became ill just before she was to give birth to a litter of puppies. Bandy rushed his pal to the hospital, where she died that evening.

There may be another dog, but the sparkle of palship with Sweet Pea is only a pleasant memory.

SOME QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Citing Little Known Matters That Should Prove Of General Interest

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Question: May women vote and hold legislative offices in the Virgin Islands?

Answer: They may now vote and hold legislative office, although until quite recently they were not qualified as voters. The St. Thomas Teacher's Association was largely responsible for this action taken in behalf of women. The Danish Colonial Law of 1906, kept in force as the Virgin Island's Constitution by an Act of Congress passed on March 3, 1917, provided that "the franchise or right of voting is vested in every man of unblemished character," and consequently women were barred.

Robert W. Claiborne, a New York constitutional lawyer, contended that the Nineteenth Amendment to the Federal Constituion provided that "the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied nor abridged by the United States or any State on account of sex," and that therefore women were entitled to vote in the Virgin Islands.

The Federal District Court, presided over by Federal Judge Albert Levitt, has issued a writ of mandamus against the board of election of the Islands, commanding them to register and place on the electoral lists the names of women duly and properly qualified to vote for members of the Colonial Council, the islands' legislative body.

State Department Analyzes Accidents

What causes motor vehicle accidents?

The answer to this question is being sought scientifically by the State Division of Driver's Licenses and the division believes it has found at least a partial answer.

By means of equipment designed by the division, tests have been made during the past six months of those who have been involved in fatal accidents and those who because of many accidents have been placed in the accidents prone group.

From these tests the division has determined that physical defects or physical weaknesses are a contributing factor to many accidents.

"Among the factors particularly noted," says the chief of the division, "were that one out of twelve of accident prone drivers tested were found to be color blind, while the usual average is about one out of each 100.

"Collisions in which persons with defective vision in one eye were involved occurred almost invariably on the side of defective vision.

"In 60 per cent of the accidents ability to judge distance appeared to be a factor, and in each of these cases the driver failed completely on the depth of vision test.

"The division is now working to educate persons as to their deficiencies so that they may compensate for such factors in their driving.

Registration Shows Population Gain

Using November registration figures as an indicator, Chief Deputy County Clerk William Augustus said ,early this week, that San Mateo County population is approximately 115,987.

This figure is based on the belief that total population is approximately 2.4 times the registration. Previous estimates computed in this manner have been only a very little off federal census figures.

During the past two years the county has continued a steady growth which began in 1932, following a letdown.

Daly City population is estimated at 10,843. Burlingame, San Mateo and Redwood City top this figure.

Nearly every 30 minutes a stolen automobile is recovered in California, though thieves take them at a slightly faster rate.

October reports disclose that 1365 motor vehicles had been stolen during the month and 1209 were recovered.

Since the establishment of the Auto Theft Bureau of the California Highway Patrol, the lot of automobile thieves is becoming more difficult, Ingels said. Accurate records are kept by the department and with increased facilities police throughout the state are able to secure prompt information on suspected cars.

The table was prettily decorated in pink and a huge birthday cake occupied the center of the table.

The guests were Mary Ruth Frazier, Ruth Davidson, Anita Andre, Beth Ann Calvin, Barbara Jane Ray and Therest and Petsy Mabon.

WELCOME HOME!

It's a little late to be saying "welcome home," but a man who returned not so long ago from Washington did yeoman service there for his native state of California, and it ought not to go unrecognized.

Until he resumed his place as head of the College of Commerce at the University of California, Dean Henry F. Grady was one of the so-called "brain trusters." But of him the anti-New Deal Washington Post said, "If all its members had the sagacity of Doctor Grady, the President's 'brain trust" would not have been the target for ridicule by any faction."

Dean Grady's position was just the one in which he could, and did, do the most good for California. He was director of the foreign trade agreements section of the State Department, which negotiated all the new reciprocal treaties with various countries. He was, in other words, number one man in the whole treaty-making show!

Not every Californian approves of the present treaty policy, of course, but all must admit that this state fared better in the fourteen agreements thus far signed than it would have been had Dean Grady not been on the job.

From almost all the foreign countries, the United States got concessions on such California products as fresh vegetables, fresh and dried fruits, raisins, petroleum—even motion pictures. America's export trade is increasing. In the first half of this year it gained some $120,000,000 over the same period of 1935. And in 1929, California accounted for $380,000,000 of the nation's five billions in export. So you see what these concessions may eventually mean to the state.

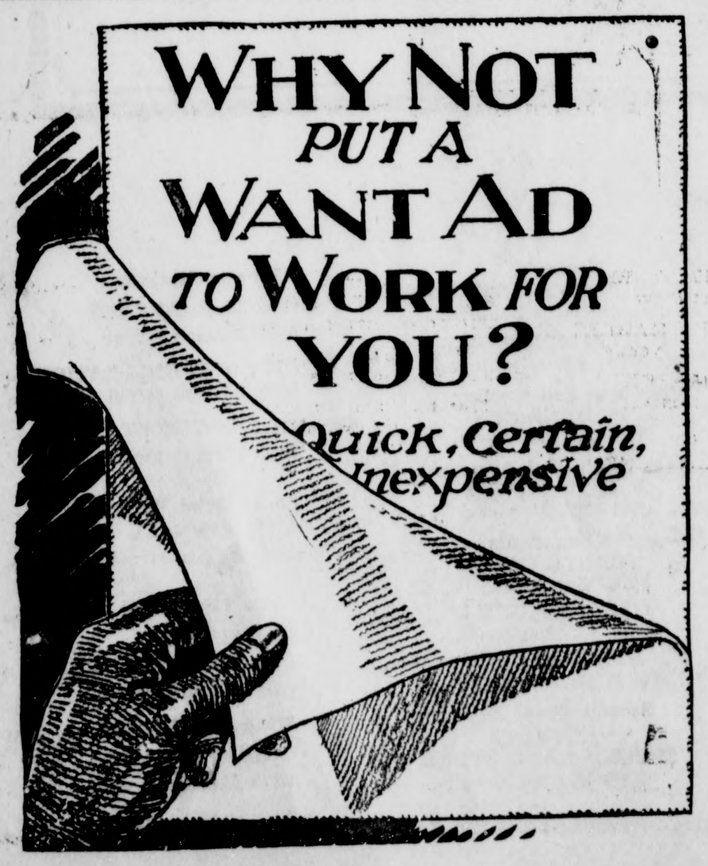
Dean Grady left Washington of his own volition, preferring to return to his university post, and to California, where living is somewhat better than elsewhere. He deserves this belated "welcome home"—and good work!

A PRESIDENT COMES HOME

When the President steps off the cruiser Indianapolis next week and on to American soil once more after his sojourn south of the equator, his holiday will be over. A "holiday," that is, which was something like that of a theater usher who goes to the movies on his day off. He wrote and delivered two major speeches en route. And every minute he was as much in touch with United States official affairs as though he'd been in his chair at the White House. But hereafter the pressure will be on for fair, with a maze of domestic questions. What's to be done about strikes? What about taxes, the budget, security laws, housing, the Guffey Coal Act, banking and money matters, and neutrality legislation? Work, work, work. Why do they do it, these men who run for President?

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

America's education is doing quite well for the children. It's the education of grown-ups that needs most attention now. Such was the view expressed the other day by a distinguished visitor to California who has every reason to know whereof he speaks. Dr. John W. Studebaker is commissioner of the entire educational system in the United States. He pointed out that of the 76 million men and women in this country, 64 million had never finished high school and 32 million had never finished the eighth grade. It's something to think about, all right. A lot of college men are tired of working for executives who have no high school diplomas.



Bank Of America Directors In Meet

Bank of America's Board of Directors held the regular monthly meeting here, Tuesday of this week.

Marshall Hale and A. J. Gock of San Francisco, who have been directors of Bank of America (State Bank), were elected directors of Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association.

P. C. Hale Jr. was elected a director of the State Bank and W. E. Bauer was elected a vice chairman of the board.

A resolution of condolence was extended the family of P. C. Hale, deceased. Mr. Hale had long and faithfully served as director of Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association.

Employes receiving a salary of $200 or less, and who have been in the employ of the bank for one year, were voted a Christmas bonus of one-half months salary. Employes who have less than one years service will receive an amount in proportion to the length of service. Salaries in the higher brackets were materially increased on July 1, last.

Federal Production Enters Final Week

What might be called a satirical caprice, full of youth and audacity, enters its final week at the Columbia Theater, where "Take Your Choice" by Bacon-Mathias-Stoll has been making theatrical history.

The Federal Music Project production will give Thursday and Saturday matinees at 2:30 p. m., next week, and, especially for out of towners, will ring up the curtain at 7:15 p. m. on Monday.

Arthur Cunningham, veteran of decades in the show business, is one of the most effective members of the large cast in his triple role as the self made Mr. McFordstein, the recruiting sergeant and exhorting leader of the "Finger-Twitchers."

As a costume note, let it be mentioned that Mr. Cunningham's ballooning army pants for the recruiting scene measure 45 inches across.

Heating Equipment Needed For Winter

With the fall season nearly over and the winter months drawing close, thoughts of householders are turning toward cold weather comfort and suitable heating installation to insure it.

By suitable installation is meant one best adapted to the construction of the particular dwelling. Given available basement space, the central gas furnace commends itself, for pipes carry the warm air to any room in the house with which connection is made, and the supply of heat is easily controlled by automatic process.

Where structural conditions such as are frequently found in dwellings of the bungalow type do not permit the installation of a central furnace, there are several smaller types of gas heating appliances available, including portable heaters and fixed room heaters.

The circulating gas heater occupies little space, is inexpensive to install and costs little to operate. In determining the proper size of appliance to install, the construction of the room, particularly in regard to windows and exposure, as well as the amount of air space involved must be taken into account. These matters are all worked out scientifically and the advice of the gas company's experts is always at the home owner's disposal.

Christmas Holidays With Marionettes

The Federal Theater Propect is planning an elaborate holiday program for the entertainment of adults and children at its Federal Theater, 960 Bush street, in which the spirit of the season will be emphasized.

Ralph Chesse, state director of marionettes for the Federal Theater Project has arranged a special showing of "The Crock of Gold," by the Irish poet, James Stephens. The play was produced last spring and met with great favor. The coming production will be a revised and greatly improved version, it is said.

It will open Thursday of next week, and matinees will be presented on Saturday afternoons. Mail reservations will be cared for in the order they are received.

In the ancient days of Europe before neutrality rights of a nation were recognized, a warring country considered any country not an ally an enemy. How different this was from today when nations are suspicious even of their allies.

EXPERIENCED HOUSEWIFE CLUB

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Here is a recipe for an old English fruit cake, which will keep at least a month if placed in a can. It was sent in by Amelia H. Lewis, 724 Bellevue avenue, Daly City.

PHYLLIS'S CAKE

Two pounds flour, one-half pound butter, one-half pound lard, one-half pound raisins, one-half pound currants, two ounces shredded citron, two teaspoons baking powder, two cups sugar, five eggs and one-half teaspoon salt.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Rub in fat; flour the fruit and add to mixture. Add sugar. Beat eggs slightly. Mix well with other ingredients. Bake in 275 degree oven one hour or more. Press a few walnuts in batter when in pan. This is a stiff batter. If it appears too stiff, add a small quantity of milk.

MOCK FRUIT CAKE

(From Miss N. S. F. Rickmann)

One pound seedless raisins, boiled in two cups of water twenty minutes. Then remove from fire and add one cup of cold water and let cool.

Two and one-half cups of sugar, two tablespoons of butter or substitute, one tablespoon salad oil, two tablespoons chocolate, one-fourth pound citron, five cups flour, one teaspoon each of allspice, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, salt, baking powder and baking soda and if desired, one cup of nuts.

Mix sugar, butter and salad oil together, sift dry ingredients and alternate with raisin water and fruit. Bake in loaf pan for one hour or more in a moderate oven.

CHRISTMAS PLUM PUDDING

(From The Farmer's Wife)

One cup of finely chopped beef suet, two cups fine bread crumbs, one heaping cup sugar, one cup seeded raisins, one cup well washed currants, one cup chopped blanched almonds, one-half cup citron (sliced thin), one teaspoon of salt, one of cloves, two of cinnamon, half a grated nutmeg and four well beaten eggs. Dissolve a level teaspoon of soda in a tablespoon of warm water. Flour the fruit thoroughly from a pint of flour, then mix the remainder as follows: In a large bowl put the well beaten eggs, chopped nuts, bread crumbs and suet, one after the other until all are used, putting in the dissolved soda last, adding enough flour to make the fruit stick together, which will take all of the pint. Boil or steam four hours.

SAUCE

Cream together one cup sugar, one-half cup butter; when light add the well beaten yolks of four eggs. Stir into this a pinch of salt and one large cup of hot cream or rich milk. Beat this mixture well, place in a double boiler over the fire, stir until it thickens, but do not let it boil.

OLIGARCHY MUST BE VOTED OUT OF POWER

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Governing by a group is definitely out of the picture; it has passed in the nation and at no distant day will surely pass in the state. Registration must mean something and that alone indicates the election of 1938 of the gubernatorial candidate of the Democratic party, the party of President Roosevelt.

I could never understand why the electorate should not rule in the country or in the state, either, coming nearer home. Finally the pendulum has swung that way. Every day now one hears of "mandates" from the people to do this, or that, and the other. It may be a proposition to help industry, or, on the other hand, to assist, in a reasonable manner, the wage earner. The government listens, too.

There is every indication the enlightened electors, whether in national, state or local matters, will move on from accomplishment to accomplishment, making this old world a much better place to live in.

* * *

Sir Willmott Lewis, American correspondent of a big English newspaper, made an exhaustive study of the situation in the United States prior to the recent national election and following the overwhelming triumph of President Roosevelt, truly characterized the election as an uprising against big business and the daily newspapers. It will be recalled that at least 85 per cent of the supposedly influential dailies of the country opposed the return of the chief executive to the White House.

* * *

Let's look at the derivation of the Greek word oligarchia: It is from oligos, meaning few, and arche, signifying rule. Through the years the English word oligarchy has been used to denote that the power of the government has been in the hands of a small, exclusive class. We all know of the conditions in the United States prior to the first election of President Roosevelt. Now we are emerging from that far from enviable situation; we are working out a comprehensive program of real democracy.

In the state we need a change, as well. For too many years the decision in important governmental problems has not been made by the people, as it should be, but by a small exclusive class.

Men and women of the state have the instrumentalities of putting their desires into force when it comes to questions of moment, such as social security, for example. Anything at all oligarchial is out of step with modern tendencies.

* * *

A heartening thing was the decision of the United States Supreme Court on the New York unemployment insurance act. The court divided equally, four to four, Justice Harlan Stone being too ill to take part in the decision. In the case of an equal split, the judgment of the previous court is allowed to stand. As the New York Court of Appeals had upheld the New York law, the decision of the United States Supreme Court is tantamount to a declaration of constitutionality.

Believers in President Roosevelt's plans for social security are much encouraged by the decision of the highest judicial tribunal in the land, as it is the first review by the Supreme Court of state unemployment insurance laws that have been passed to supplement the federal social insurance program. This co-operation between nation and state is exactly what I have been writing about for several weeks.

The Supreme Court decision is looked upon as the successful hurdling of the first obstacle in the way of the final victory of the federal Social Security Act, which means so much in the Roosevelt scheme of things.

Was All In A Day—Girl Writes Poetry

(By Maude Larue Ives)

It was evening, the members of your family group sat quietly reminiscent, glad of the short period of inactivity. It was berry picking time on the farm. Although you, a girl of eleven, couldn't pick as many berries as Charles and Henry, your two big brothers, yet you had worked hard that day and Mother had praised you for being faithful to your task. You were tired now, but proud of your share in the day's accomplishment; the crates and crates of strawberries, neatly sectioned in square baskets, awaiting the morrow's marketing.

Daddy had told you never to put the largest berries on top. This you always tried to remember. Mrs. Allen, a neighbor, said she would buy some of your berries, and with sharp brown eyes, looking for lies, questioned: "Jane, are these berries as nice at the bottom as they are on top?" Without waiting for you to reply, she poured them into a pan. Was she surprised! She gave you a large molasses cookie with crinkly edges and a raisin in the center.

You sat on the floor with paper and pencil. Some day, you thought, you would write poetry that sounded jingly like the poems Mother read aloud from the farm magazine.

You remembered the dandelions in the meadow. You would make a pillow for your doll from their soft down. You and your pencil seemed to be inspired; as you sat on the floor, bolstered against the wall. You wrote and wrote. Then timidly you stood by Mother's chair. "I think I have written some poetry," you shyly confessed. Mother smiled at you with shiny eyes. She read with interest your childish attempt at verse. Then she reread aloud the little story, for Daddy and the boys to hear.

"O, you little dandelion, standing all alone,
You are not unhappy, you have a merry tone;
Your dress is all of yellow, your petticoat is green,
Merry little dandelion, your form is tall and lean.
"You care not for the bumblebees
When they come and tease,
They take your honey all away;
You are a proud vain thing, they say.
But soon your beauty endeth,
You soon will fly away,
And down, down in the meadow,
Your ruins there will lay."

Daddy said that his little girl should have a tablet for her copies and promised that when he sold the berries in town next day he would buy you just the right sort of note book. And he continued, "Your first poem will be entitled 'Little Dandelion'."

Did The Chinese Help Edison?

(Herbert B. Nichols in Christian Science Monitor)

Two thousand years ago, so the story runs, a Chinese prince had a box into which he would speak and then ordering it sealed, sent it to distant friends or subordinate officials. When opened, the box would repeat his message.

Whether this "magic box" ever existed, whether it was a true ancestor of Thomas Alva Edison's "phonograph" or not, no one knows. The details of the story are missing. However, history is quite positive in the claim that a nineteenth Dynasty Egyptian king recognized the value of having some mechanical method of reproducing sounds and offered a substantial prize for such an invention.

Edison was hard at work on electrical developments when the idea of the phonograph came to him in 1878. As he told the author in an interview in 1927, "I gave Kruesi" (his chief assistant) "a rough diagram showing how I wanted him to rig up a diaphragm with needle attached to slide on a movable base and follow the groves of a cylinder.

"I was working on a telegraph transmitter at the time, a device using a paper disc something like the present phonograph disc, upon which were indented dots and dashes. I speeded up the disc experimentally and found that these dots and dashes merged into musical sounds. That gave me the idea that sound waves were just so many elevations and depressions which could be molded into some pliant material. And then, what would prevent them from repeating the original sounds?"

There is no doubt but what this development helped pave the way for the first crude "talking machine." No one recognized better than Edison that inventions are not creations, but rather the aggregations of minor discoveries, the final step in a long progression.

A more humble beginning for such a tremendous development can hardly be imagined. The hollow cylinder was coated with tinfoil, and, while Edison turned the crank and spoke into the transmitter, the sound vibrations of his voice made hills and valleys in the groves of the cylinder.

Then he set the needle at the beginning and started cranking again. To his delight, in a voice he could recognize as his own (with a little imagination) the machine began to recite:

"Mary had a little lamb,
Its fleece was white as snow,"—

This nursery rhyme was the first phonograph recording, and Thomas A. Edison the first phonograph artist.

Thoroughly delighted, he carried his instrument over to the offices of the Scientific American and to the amazement and amusement of the editors, put it through its paces.

What's it good for?" they asked him. Then Edison began his now famous yarn about how valuable it would be to the business man, how he could "speak his letters to the machine," and his secretary listening later on, could write them—when time permitted.

He had invtened the dictaphone—a device for tired business men and quite unintentionally provided the world with a new method of entertainment as well.

BOYHOOD HOPES REALIZED

Though Edison was lauded throughout the world in later life, as a boy he was just an average American, not particularly smart in school, even though he could write good compositions. One day his teacher sent him home with a note for his mother telling her what a dull pupil he was, a boy with no promise. It was then she decided to teach her son herself.

Like most inventors who make inventing a life-time occupation, Edison began "tinkering" with things as a youngster. There were many laughable incidents like the time he tried to find out whether he could do as good a job hatching duck eggs as the disturbed mother duck herhelf, or the time he tried to run a playmate's lighter-than-air craft by filling it with effervescent salts.

He also had some experiences not so laughable. His mother was most patient with chemical concoctions brewed in the cellar until they became too odoriferous. She shooed him out. Then he moved to the corner of a baggage car until an experimental accident set the car on fire. Again he lost his laboratory.

Early in his experimental work he learned a valuable lesson which came about while he was perfecting the automatic vote recorder, a device to prevent dishonest counting of votes. The machine worked perfectly, but that was the trouble, it was too foolproof and the politicians would not have it. Consequently, he resolved to adopt as his motto, "Find out first what the world wants, then go ahead and supply that need."

Correct Leaky Gasket

Gaskets which permit fumes to leak from the exhaust pipe or any point between the engine and the rear end of the exhaust should be attended to at once.

Carbon monoxide, deadly gas, is always present in the exhaust gases. Leaks may allow an excessive amount of this poisonous gas to get into the passenger compartment.

Lesson Sermon Of Christian Science

In all Christian Science Churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, December 13, on the subject "God the Preserver of Man."

The Golden Text will be: "Preserve me, O God: for in thee do I put my trust" (Psalms 16 1). Bible selections will include the following passage from Isaiah 43: 2-3 (to :): "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee: when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burned; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee. For I am the Lord thy God, the Holy One of Israel, thy Saviour":

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "The relations of God and man, divine Principle and idea, are indestructible in Science; and Science knows no lapse from nor return to harmony, but holds the divine order or spiritual law, in which God and all that He creates are perfect and eternal, to have remained unchanged in its eternal history" (p. 470).

Gear Shifting Stiffness

A tendency of the new car to shift with difficulty, especially between low and second gears, is not unlikely to disappear when the car has been broken in.

It frequently is the product of a dragging clutch which may cease to drag by the time the breaking-in mileage is recorded on the speedometer. You might check with your dealer, however, to be on the safe side.

Decline In County Tax Delinquencies

When the deadline for payment of first installment of county taxes swung around last week, Tax Collector Ambrose McSweeney announced that collections appeared back to normal and delinquencies were at a minimun.

First installment collections soared upwards of $900,000. However, total receipts will be much less this year due to the drastic reduction in tax rates. There is less than 5 per cent of the taxes delinquent as compared to 6.4 per cent last year.

Oil Pipe Vent

The oil filler spout, or breather pipe on the side of the motor, usually is designed to serve as a crankcase ventilator as well as a means of putting in oil.

If the cap should become lost or broken, the filler pipe should never be plugged so as to shut out air. Closing the air supply will cause pressure in the crankcase and oil will be forced out.

SITE PROGRESS

Fillings for Exposition Island, site of the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition, are now 62 per cent complete, it was recently reported.

Approximately 11,780,000 of the required 19,000,000 cubic yards of sand are now in place, while the three mile rock seawall surrounding the site is 85 per cent complete, according to figures of the United States corps of engineers.

38-Mile Speed For Bay Bridge Trains

A top speed of 38 miles an hour will be allowed Southern Pacific and Key Route trains on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, according to a plan which last week had the approval of the railroad commission.

The trains will be governed by an automatic system of control lights on a panel within the motorman's cab. Southern Pacific trains will operate with a trolley connection and Key Route trains will have a third rail electric contact.

LIVING RELIC

There still remains at Wellington, New Zealand, a living relic of Captain Cook's visit to the Island of Tonga, in the group of which he named " The Friendly Islands" because of the warm hospitality he found there.

The relic is a tortoise that he gave to a Tongan chief about 160 years ago. The beast is blind but still alive.

Snug Shackle Bolts

Spring shackle bolts should be snug, but they should not be tight enough to bind.

If the bolts are adjusted too tightly the car will ride hard and there is also danger of breaking the main spring leaf.

Kulper—I am convinced that our baby looks just like me.

Rattigan—I wanted to say the same thing but I was afraid you would be offended if I did.

Building Permits Reach $2,000,000

Smashing all existing records, 1936 building permits for unincorporated areas in San Mateo County, last week, passed the $2,000,000 mark.

The county building inspectors disclosed that a permit issued to Charles H. Ackerman for a $6000 residence on Adeline drive in Burlingame pushed the total over the $2,000,000 line.

During the first eleven months of this year permits were issued for $1,960,000.

Total permits for 1935 did not reach one million dollars, and 1934 figures mounted to less than half a million.

SCIENTISTS ATTACKED

Industrialist John Ely Burchard, Boston, attacked 100 physicist in convention at New York, last week, when he flung this question into their faces: "Why spend time and money to study a diminishing universe when earth people are unable to even gain shelter?"

Burchard challenged the scientists to forget their abstract problems and to spend more time on the "forgotten child" of physics, home construction.

The first of the New United Air Lines transport planes was in the hangar at Mills Field, Monday of this week, after a record breaking flight from Salt Lake City.

Redwood City Will Soon Have Harbor

The proposed port at Redwood City should be completed and ready for use by next July 15, only slightly more than a year after the June 11 election authorized construction, it was announced early this week.

Final plans and specifications for the construction of the wharf and transit shed have been filed in the office of the state PWA director in San Francisco for his approval, preparatory to calling for bids.

Monday evening of this week, Redwood City Council authorized the calling for bids. Date of receiving bids was set for January 4.

Work is scheduled to begin on or before January 11, the date set by the government for construction to begin if the city is to take advantage of a $71,325 PWA grant.

The total annual expenditures for California sportsmen are $63,015,440. This figure is based on a total sale of slightly less than 400,000 licenses, although it is estimated that more than 500,000 licenses will be sold in the state of California during 1936.

The average annual expenditure of the California angler is $116.80.

Supervisors Buy New Office Site

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors filed a deed, Tuesday of this week, recording their purchase of the $6500 Marshall street property, proposed site for a new county office building.

Considerable delay had resulted in obtaining the property because there was no county fund specifically designated from which money might be taken to make the purchase. The $6500 was finally secured from the courthouse construction fund.

Closing of Tuesday's deal appeared to be a fatal blow to hopes of the East San Mateo Improvement Club that the courthouse would be removed to San Mateo .

According to County Manager Walter Kellogg the proposed new office building will be two stories high and will house the fire warden's office, the county library, agricultural commissioner, relief office, Redwood City justice court ,county school superintendent and supervisors' quarters.
